The Don Miller Case

Rebuttal to Dr. Lanny Robbins

I reviewed the copy of the medical report written by Dr. Lanny Robbins, which contained his assessment of arm and leg bruising as being sufficient evidence upon which to assert sexual assault to a reasonable degree of medical certainty. Adult sexual assault is comprised of two elements:

1. sexual contact
2. no consent to that contact.

Dr. Robbins had no first hand knowledge regarding the consent, and discovered no medical evidence of any sexual contact or sexual area injury. There was no medical evidence of male biological material. Yet he testified at trial that Connie Vargovich had been sexually assaulted and this was to a reasonable degree of medical certainty which is simply impossible where lacking evidence of sexual contact and possessing no first hand knowledge regarding consent.

I am appalled and I absolutely disagree with the conclusions of Dr. Lanny Robbins.

Sincerely

Dr. Samuel G Albert
